Rouse Hill High School is embracing Restorative Practice!

Rouse Hill High School has embraced Restorative Practice to improve and maintain quality relationships among students, teachers and the community, as well as providing support in resolving conflict.

Rouse Hill High School recognizes that as people we all make mistakes and that we need to take responsibility for our actions, find ways to repair the damage to relationships and learn from such experiences.

Restorative Practice is not about blame. It focuses on the behaviour or issue that is causing concern and then working together to find a positive way forward.

How can parents be involved?

Come along to our parent information session.

Vicki Kable from Marist Youth Care will be presenting the Rouse Hill High School approach to Restorative Practice. Please join us.

Where: Rouse Hill High School hall
